Lone Lake Fly-in Outpost Fishing Camp

Located northwest of our Orillia base, Lone Lake is situated inland from Georgian Bay just north of the Severn River, a scenic 20-minute flight that takes you over the Trent-Severn waterway. Accessible by air only, Lone is a small 2-mile long lake with tannin stained clear water, home to a healthy population of largemouth bass which occasionally reach 5 pounds and a thriving population of perch of considerable size. Typically, however, the bass will weigh between 1 and 3 pounds, with very few smaller fish showing up.

Wilderness Outposts

Fishing activity has picked up considerably over the past few years at Lone, due in great part to Stanton Air's conservation policy of Catch & Release. This extremely private and secluded lake now boasts consistently good results throughout bass season. We still maintain strict control over this lake, and restrict the number of visiting parties each year. The small sunfish population has been of benefit to our guest: using a caught sunfish as bait has proven to be an excellent tactic in landing good sized bass!

The camp base features a comfortable 6-bunk cabin, equipped with a propane stove and full size fridge. This secluded rustic location is shared by a pair of loons which return every year to enchant our guests. A lovely campfire clearing overlooking the lake to the west affords a spectacular sunset view.
